FPC2025
Future Propulsion Conference

FPC2025 Student Ticket Scheme and Competition

Are you a student, early career researcher or early career engineer*¹ working in Automotive, Motorsport, Off-Road, E-Mobility or other transport related areas.

Come and attend one of the largest UK based conferences focussed on propulsion technologies: The Future Propulsion Conference.

12th - 13th March 2025

 Seminars  Exhibition  Networking

National Motorcycle
Museum, Solihull

This year we are offering a large number of heavily discounted tickets for students and recent graduates, alongside a competition for free tickets.

40 tickets discounted by 50% are available to anyone in the above categories who submits an application by the 10th January 2025. These will be awarded by lottery.*²

10 free tickets will be given to the winner of the competition, and are available to anyone in the above categories who submits a short 1-page essay by the 10th January 2025 on their vision for what propulsion technologies will be like in 2050. These will be judged by the Scientific Advisory Board (the members of which are listed on the conference website).

Unsuccessful competition entrants will automatically be included in the lottery for the 50% discount.

We are also keen to give students, researchers or early career engineers the opportunity to present, and therefore welcome short abstracts for '3-minute pitch' style presentations.

We are also happy to support educators, course coordinators, or team leaders from industry, who might want to bring a cohort to the conference.

Please get in touch as we are happy to create a bespoke package for you.

1 Students must be registered at a higher education institution during the period of the conference. Early career researchers and engineers must have graduated with their latest qualification within the last 3 years (for example those who graduated in the summer of 2022 would be eligible, but those in the summer of 2021 would not). Get in touch if you are not sure.

2 If any are left over, we will run a second competition in the new year.
